Workload, requirements, and choices the experiment permits
For example: generate a memory organization that meets the power budget and required software behavior
Generate and revise
Propose an organization and matching interfaces
Build the combination
Matching hardware, software, and test configurations
Evaluate with tools
Simulation, implementation, and verification checks
Measurements and failures guide the next design
Architect review
Reconsider the candidate, the experiment, or its goals